Tenerife has so much to discover

Getting to know the island by car allows you to move around at your own pace and take the direction you want.

However, since many visitors have chosen this way of getting around the island, you can sometimes encounter heavy traffic, especially at popular tourist sites.

There are some tips to make travelling around Tenerife more pleasant while being respectful of the environment.

Where are you going today?

Teide

National Park

TEIDE
PARQUE NACIONAL

THIS NATIONAL PARK IS AN EXTRAORDINARY PLACE

This relatively small area hosts a great diversity of volcanic structures and materials. This is one of the reasons why it's included in the UNESCO list of World Heritage Sites.

In addition, its location on an island and its high mountain climate means that unique, rare, and fragile animals and plants live here.

A WILD BUT DELICATE TERRITORY

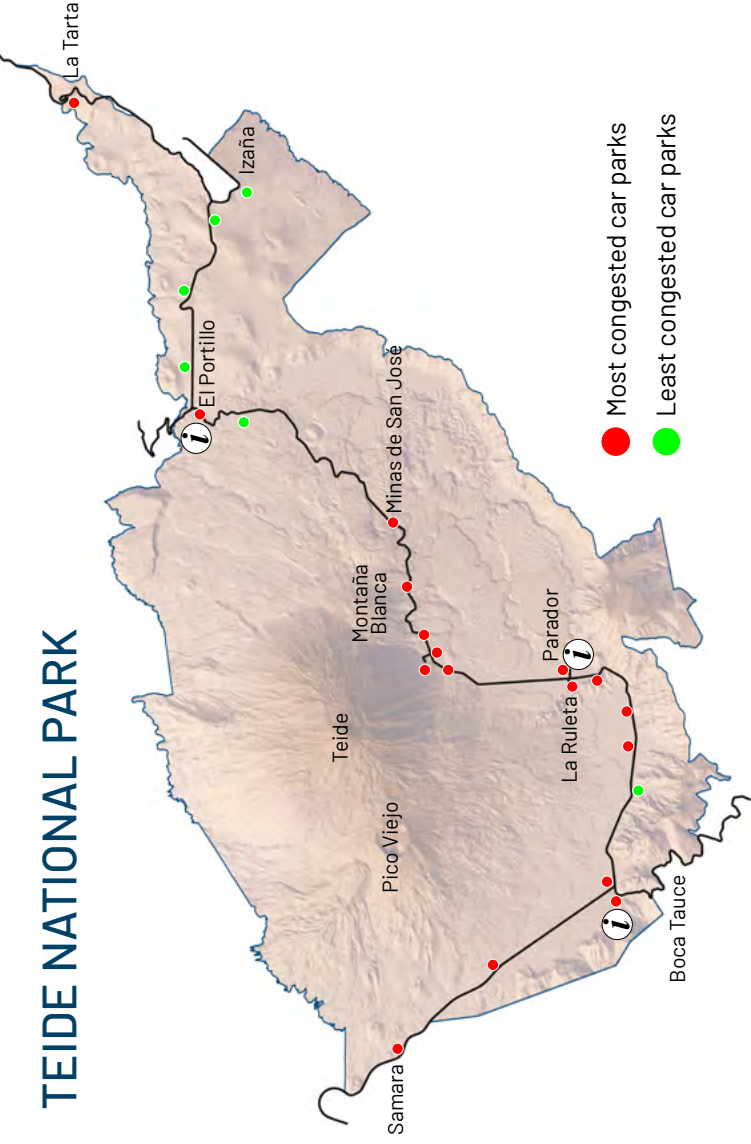

Teide National Park receives more than four million visitors each year, making it one of the most visited parks in Spain. This means that, on occasion, the number of vehicles is excessive.

Furthermore, due to the steep terrain, the roads are narrow, have no hard shoulders, there are bends with no visibility and there are few parking spaces.

Showing responsibility, both behind the wheel and at your stops makes the experience more enjoyable for you and other visitors.

WHAT IF YOU LET YOURSELF BE TAKEN TO MOUNT TEIDE?

Travelling by public transport benefits you, the island, and the planet.

Aside from forgetting about driving and looking for parking, you can enjoy the scenery and contribute to reducing traffic and the emission of polluting gases.

If you choose to leave your car for a day and visit Mount Teide by bus, there are two bus lines that go up to the national park first thing in the morning and return in the afternoon to their points of origin:

EXPLORE THE NATIONAL PARK

The park has many places worth visiting, such as the visitor centres, its network of trails, and many viewing points beyond the most congested points.

Find out more about all these experiences at:

TENERIFE ON

You can also find the Telesforo Bravo Visitor Centre in the Old Town of La Orotava. It offers a simulated ascent from the seashore to the summit of Mount Teide, travelling virtually along the same path that Humboldt, the famous German naturalist, followed in 1799. Next to the centre, there is a native flora garden, with species from the different vegetation levels of the island of Tenerife.

THE ROCK FORTRESS THAT GUARDS AN ANCESTRAL CULTURE

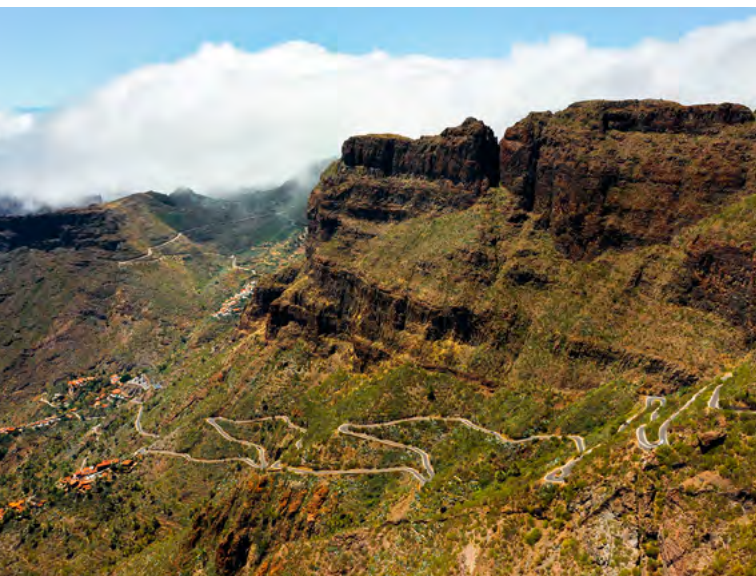

The ancient volcanoes of the Teno Massif have been carved out by millions of years of erosion, forming a striking landscape of ravines and cliffs. An agricultural culture of enormous ethnographic interest has developed in this difficult terrain.

You can contribute to the maintenance of this area by behaving in a way that respects the environment and its inhabitants, as well as buying a variety of local products.

ROADS WINDING THROUGH SPECTACULAR SCENERY

Teno Rural Park is characterised by its rugged terrain. The roads that run through it are adapted to this terrain, and are often narrow, with no hard shoulder, steep slopes and bends with poor visibility. Because of its beauty, it is a very popular area, but parking is scarce, which sometimes leads to a build-up of traffic.

Showing responsibility, both behind the wheel and at your stops, will make the experience more pleasant for you and other visitors.

TWO PARTICULAR ENCLAVES

In order to offer a quality visit and safeguard the values of the most visited points in the rural park, specific regulations have been put in place:

HAMLET OF MASCA

As parking is limited, it is not permitted to park for a long period of time. For hiking, you must reach Masca by public transport.

PUNTA DE TENO

For security and conservation reasons, access by private or hire car is restricted. You must park in Buenavista and take public transport.

AND IF YOU LET YOURSELF BE TAKEN TO TENÓ RURAL PARK?

Travelling by public transport benefits you, the island and the planet.

Aside from forgetting about driving and looking for parking, you can enjoy the scenery and contribute to reducing traffic and the emission of polluting gases.

Furthermore, if you go hiking, you can take linear routes without returning to your starting point.

If you choose to leave your car behind for the day, there are several public transport lines:

AN ISLAND WITHIN AN ISLAND

Anaga has so many peculiar characteristics in terms of geological history, nature, culture, and landscape that it can be considered “another island” within Tenerife.

The Rural Park and the adjoining land and maritime territories are recognised as a UNESCO Biosphere Reserve, a commitment to harmonise conservation and development.

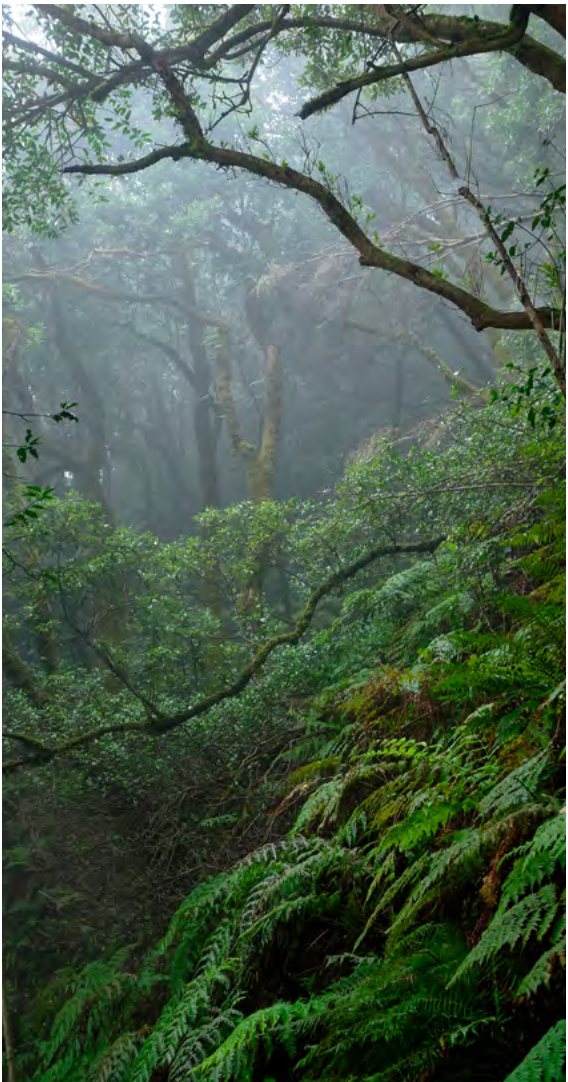

You can contribute to the maintenance of this area by behaving in a way that respects the environment, inhabitants, as well as buy its varied local products.

AN INTRICATE LANDSCAPE RISING FROM THE SEA

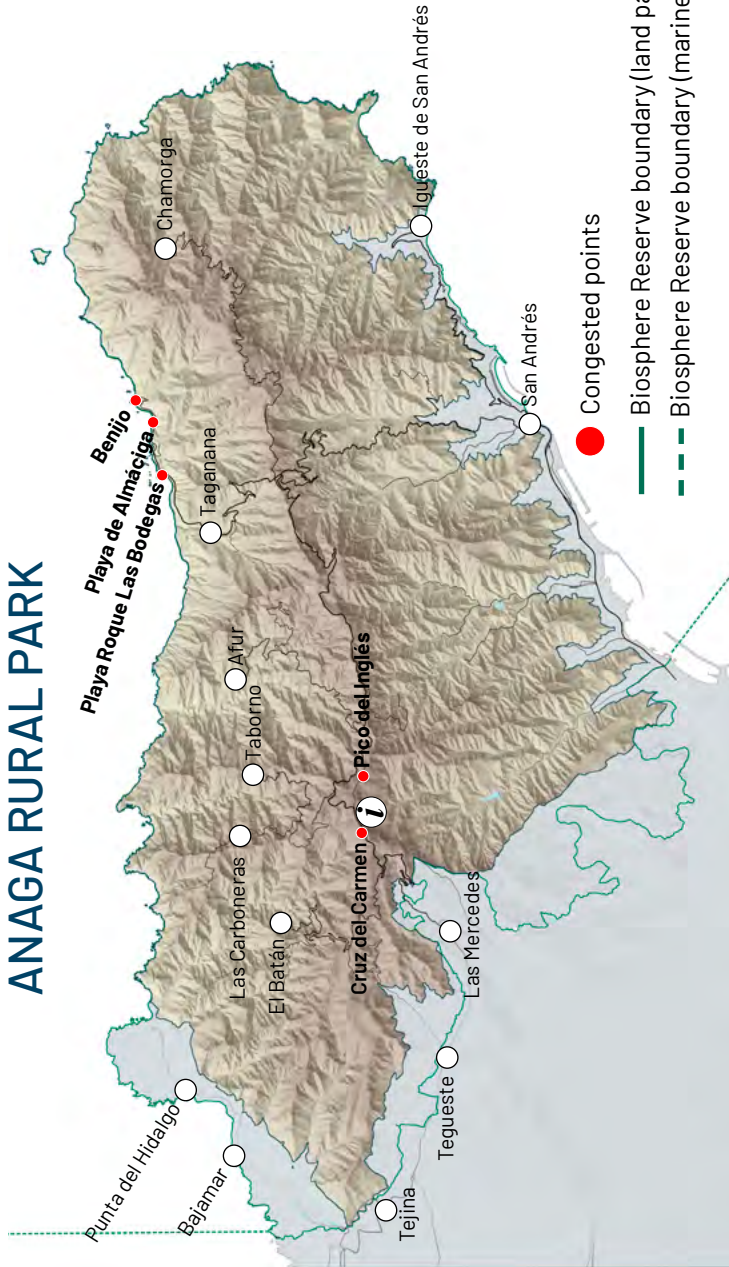

The ruggedness of the landscape is part of the beauty of Anaga Parque Rural. The roads are moulded to the terrain and are often narrow, with no hard shoulder and low-visibility bends.

Its natural and cultural values make it an enticing place to visit. But parking is scarce. For this reason, you may find heavy traffic in certain places.

ANAGA RURAL PARK

SPECIAL ENCLAVES

Due to the high demand but scarce parking, we recommend that you access these places by public transport:

CRUZ DEL CARMEN

The Anaga Visitors' Centre and the start of several trails are located here. Please do not park for hours at a time and leave verges and turning areas free.

ALMÁCIGA, ROQUE DE LAS BODEGAS AND BENIJO BEACHES

These are beaches of great beauty, but dangerous. Always leave the way clear and the areas reserved for ambulances and public transport.
